JCP Philosophy

Our goal is to create a safe, positive and accepting environment where adults and children learn together. We believe it is essential for families to be in the classroom learning and participating with their children.

We encourage our children to think for themselves, solve problems, ask questions and find out what they really care about.

Our preschoolers learn these skills in a nurturing environment through dramatic play, block building, taking time to solve problems when they arise, investigating, planning, making mistakes, discussing their ideas with other children and adults, hearing good stories and songs, and playing with paint, sand, wood, and water, as well as spending time observing plants animals, natural phenomena, and exploring the outdoors.
